For many seasons, our float has been a fixture in the Salem Harbor. During a storm in February, our main float was destroyed. In the spring, we had this 30' by 10' steel barge built in Fairhaven, MA and the new house was built by Reed's Ferry Shed's in Hudson, NH. It is large enough for our drivers to keep out of the weather, but small enough to be hauled out for the winter.

Electricity for our new float is provided by a solar panel mounted on the roof. A rain barrel is being utilized in the collection of water for our "zero discharge" marine head.
